

Harvard Medical School

Beth Israel
Hospital

Kenneth A. Arndt, M.D.
(617) 735-4591

Professor of Dermatology
Harvard Medical School

Dermatologist-in-Chief
Beth Israel Hospital

Beth Israel Hospital
330 Brookline Avenue
Boston, MA 02215

July 18, 1991

Gerald Kaplan, M.D.
Chief, Department of Surgery
Alta Bates Hospital
Berkeley, CA 904705

Dear Dr. Berger:

We are considering setting up a clinic devoted to camouflage therapy for facial disfigurements and abnormnalities. The person who would supervise this clinic is an esthetician who has studied with Victoria Rayner, a clinical cosmetologist affiliated with the University of California at San Francisco who has had a lot of experience in this field.

I have heard that you have such expertise available in your hospital and would appreciate hearing about your experiences. Is this a valuable asset? Is this established within your department, or does it report within nursing or other hospital departments? Have there been difficulties in acquiring hospital privileges for these individuals? I would appreciate hearing what your perspective is on this issue.

Many thanks.

Sincerely,

Kenneth A. Arndt, M.D.

KAA:Erf